

Manatee bar honors two for community service

MANATEE — Attorneys Melton H. Little and Jonathan D. Fleece have been recognized by the Manatee County Bar Association for their record of service to the community.

In the 15th annual presentation of the awards, Little received the William C. Grimes Award for Lifetime Achievement in Community Service, and Fleece received the Community Service Leader Award.

The awards highlight members of the Bar Association who provide service to the community through participation in organizations and activities beyond the scope of the Bar and mandatory pro bono legal services.

Little, a partner in Kalins & Little, was honored in particular for his service to children and youth organizations, Fleece, a principal and shareholder in Blacklock Walters, was honored for his volunteer efforts in promoting and facilitating the provision of primary medical care to low-income, uninsured and underserved residents.

Nominations for the awards were submitted by fellow members of the Manatee County Bar Association.
